Textbook

Ryckman, R. (2013). Theories of Personality (Tenth Edition). Belmont, CA: Cengage. (ISBN: 9781111830663)

Classroom Protocol

- 1) Students are expected to conduct themselves in a professional manner. This includes coming to class on time and having reading assignments done in advance.
- 2) Class attendance and participation is an important component of this course. Though attendance will not be formally taken, students will be responsible for in-class projects that will require active course involvement.

- 3) Handouts and/or additional readings may be distributed during class. If you miss a class, it is your responsibility to obtain copies of course notes and handouts from a colleague. Students will be responsible for content from every class, regardless of attendance.
- 4) Please make sure that any use of technological devices will not disrupt the class.

Definition of a Credit Hour

Success in this course is based on the expectation that students will spend, for each unit of credit, a minimum of forty-five hours over the length of the course (normally 3 hours per unit per week with 1 of the hours used for lecture) for instruction or preparation/studying or course related activities including but not limited to internships, labs, clinical practica. Other course structures will have equivalent workload expectations as described in the syllabus.

As an example, the expectation of work for a 3-credit course is 150-minutes of direct faculty instruction and six hours of out-of-class student work each week.

Recording of Class Lectures

Common courtesy and professional behavior dictates that you notify someone when you are recording him/her. You must obtain the instructor's permission to make audio or video recordings in this class. This permission allows the recordings to be used for your private, study purposes only. The recordings are the intellectual property of the instructor; you have not been given any rights to reproduce or distribute the material.

University Policies

Academic integrity

Your commitment as a student to learning is evidenced by your enrollment at San Jose State University. The University's Academic Integrity policy, located at <http://www.sjsu.edu/senate/S07-2.htm>, requires you to be honest in all your academic course work. Faculty members are required to report all infractions to the office of Student Conduct and Ethical Development. The Student Conduct and Ethical Development website is available at <http://www.sjsu.edu/studentconduct/>.

Instances of academic dishonesty will not be tolerated. Cheating on exams or plagiarism (presenting the work of another as your own, or the use of another person's ideas without giving proper credit) will result in a failing grade and sanctions by the University. For this class, all assignments are to be completed by the individual student unless otherwise specified. If you would like to include your assignment or any material you have submitted, or plan to submit for another class, please note that SJSU's Academic Policy S07-2 requires approval of instructors.

Assignments and Grading Policy

Mid-Term Exams: (2 exams, 100 points each)

Two mid-term exams will be administered during the semester. The tests will not be cumulative and will cover the material presented in class, readings, and other media like films. The tests will consist of multiple choice questions. You will need to bring a Scantron form (882E) with you for each of the exams.

Student Project: (100 points)

To further explore Personality theories in applied contexts, students will select an example(s) of a character (or characters) from a source of media such as a movie, TV show, book, etc. The student project should endeavor to better understand and explain the personality characteristics of that person (people) from the perspective of one of the personality theorists that we will be covering during the class. Each student will prepare a class presentation that will include clips from the movie, TV show, book, etc. that allow us to “see” the personality characteristics you wish to focus on. Each presentation then needs to demonstrate how the person’s (people’s) personality characteristics could be understood and explained from the perspective of the personality theorist on which the student chooses to focus.

Final examination: (100 points)

As with the midterms, the final exam will cover material presented in class, readings, and other media and will be in multiple choice format. Be sure you show up! There are NO MAKE-UPS for the final exam. You will need to bring a Scantron form (882E) with you for the final exam.
